

Executive Team Analytics

Building and developing high performing Executive Leadership Teams is essential to organizational success. Ensuring you have a deep understanding of each individual's strengths and development opportunities, while at the same time analyzing how disparate, counter-productive behaviors interact within the group, is crucial to implementing an action plan that will eliminate potential anchors on performance and drive team effectiveness and business results.

Harrison Assessments Analytics employ a cutting edge, talent management technology that provides insights for executive development. Break the cycle of depending on unreliable gut feelings and utilize quantifiable behavioral data to determine team capabilities. Create a Succession Planning strategy for identifying high-potential leaders within your organization.

Why Choose Harrison for your Executive Team Development?

Based on twelve essential leadership behavioral competencies, Paradox Mastery Technology is unique in its ability to display whether strong traits are really strengths or whether they are potential derailers. To truly develop performance, individuals must first understand their own behavioral preferences; recognize and build on their behavioral strengths, while acknowledging the perception of behavioral weaknesses as they relate to a leadership role.
